Develox

Company & capabilities

Thoughtful technology. Built around your business.

Develox provides web and software development, mobile application development, application security, agentic AI development, and research and development. The team works with organizations to explore product ideas, build useful software and discuss the engineering scope that fits their needs.

What we do

Web & software development

Web platforms and software shaped around product, people and business requirements. Engagements begin with the problem to solve and a conversation about scope.

Mobile application development

Mobile app development aligned to product goals, users and practical delivery needs.

Application security

Application-security services for teams discussing a product in development, an existing application or security questions to scope.

Agentic AI development & research

Agentic AI and R&D services that start with the use case and a conversation about a suitable research or engineering path.

Client product delivery

Develox delivered a mobile application product for a client. This overview describes the confirmed delivery without naming the client or adding unprovided product features.

Start a conversation

Tell us about your product, your users and the work you want software to make easier. We can discuss the right next step together.

Website: www.develox.in
Contact: contact@develox.in Support: support@develox.in
Phone: 7075475447